The Man About Town.

By HARRY TUCKER.

We hate to throw away the hat, we've worn for many years,
But times are such that folks will talk about the thing that cheers
Us as we go along in life without thoughts of to-morrow.
Our soul illed up with sadness and our heart check full of sorrow.

That good old hat has sheltered us from many wintry blasts.
We'll have a high regard for it as long as memory lasts.
But time and toll change everything, and it has come to that. it has come to that, we thrown away our wornout, lid and bave another hat.

In our humble fashion we like to sit in some sort place and observe the signs of the times as they are placed upon the cycle of lemma events.

And that's how we happened to observe that for a small consideration a bright fellow on Ninth Street will "press your mants in the rear."

The fellow who does this work may be facetious, but he has probably "seen" a stern parent at one time or another in his career.

Another sign that has attracted our atnother sign that has attracted our at-ion is the one in front of the Broad his cureer.

Another sign that has attracted our attention is the one in front of the Broad Street burber shop, which tells the way Street burber shop, which tells the way Street burber shop, which tells the way farer. that he may have his shoes "shined on the inside."

We never thought much about having the inside of our puts freesced by the barber shop artist, but there may be people who do.

There are many other signs, but the most conspicuous is the one that is not on a pile of bricks in the street as a fellow goes home at hight and reaches that haven, with his skull cracked or his leg broken in two or three places.

We always dedge red signs, even when they are on the inside of a glass, but when the sign is not there, how can we expect to dedge the surgeon's bli?

When a fellow forgets to put a light on a pile of bricks in the street, or a pile of mortar or a bundle of boards, the city fathers should selze the obstruction is a short surt home, and use it in town improvements.

what good is the City Council, if it is want good is the City Council, if it is or to look out for the wayfarers, and ist as soon as we get out of the hos-ital we are going to interview some of he members of that august body. QUIET GAYETY AT DEAF-MUTE'S HALL

Three Hundred of the Elect Surds and Their Fair Friends Danced All Night.

Afflicted? No one who saw the ball of the League of Efeet Surds at its finish yesterday morning would apply that word to the 39 or more deaf mules, who gave overy token that they were having a "perfectly lovely" time.

Dance? Of course, they did. There were twenty dances on the programme and an orchestra. Indeed, music is just as necessary for a ball of the Elect Surds as it is for other people who can hear and speak. They don't hear the music, but they can waltz and polka and two-step and romp through the lanelers and quadrilles in perfect time to the rhythms of the music.

rilles in perfect time to the rhythms of the music. as Mr. C. J. Le Clerca, the ther of the Elect Surfas, explained to a World reporter, is felt plainly and greatly enjoyed by even those who are stone deaf. There were pretty girls, no end of them, one of the prosts popular was a tall, dark young woman. She was always surrounded by black coats, and her dance pregramme was full before the grand march began. Another pretty girl, sweet, demure, with sloping shoulders, like those one sees in a daguerreotype of like those one sees in a daguerreotype of our grand-mothers' youth, was no less sought by swains.

One Hundred and First Street and Co-lumbus Avenue, to learn the great lesson that in a filrtation or a serious wooling words are a superfluity. There is a strong temptation to give particulars, but it would be too much like cavesdropping. It is good form at a ball of this charac-ter not to notice what you see, as it would be to ignore what one might acci-dentally overhear at a dance in the Four Hundred.—New York World.

BACHELOR MAYOR WAS CAUGHT BY OWN DECREE

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

DES MOINES, Jan. 26.—To escape payment of a $20 inc. Mayor E. W. Sorber, of Gowrie, lowa, has taken a wife.

In the early part of last year Mayor Sorber decreed that every old maid, bachelor, widow or widower refusing an offer of marriage during leap-year would be fined from $5$ to $20$, the money to go to the public library fund.

Mayor Sorber was himself a bachelor, and within a short time propositions from marriageable fembles began rolling in. Each offer was refused, and on one pretext or snother the Mayor kept postnoning the fines which the public declared should be assessed against him.

On New Year's Eve a committee of citizens waited upon the Mayor and informed him that for ten Gowrie women, whose hands he had refused, he was fined the limit, aggregating $20. The Mayor asked for a stay of thirty days and it was granted on condition that he give a bond for the amount, which he did.

Yesterday Mayor Sorber married Lillian Cooper, of St. Louis.
